10.	Aims of the course (competitions)	Status of the Republic of Macedonia as state candidate for membership in EU has underlined the necessity for education of the principles of Public International Law. The aim is for students to understand role of the Law in International community and to perceive international institutions in their development. They can learn the tension and relation between traditional law, connected to state sovereignty and a new so called “soft” law, emerging from new values in international community. This program enable introduction and systematic learning of the issues from theoretical and practical point of view, connected to the process of international, inter-state, and other peaceful means of settlement of disputes. The analytical part of the program has the aim for students to develop techniques of critical thinking. Detailed study of the organization, functioning and practice of the International Court of Justice enables students to adopt new knowledge regarding more important cases of judgments and advisory opinions of this main judicial body of the UN.
